Didsbury Coming Back As Milk Shipping Point

The appearance at the C.P.R. depot when the noon train comes in reminds one of the times years ago when Didsbury was a real milk shipping point.

Shipments of milk have been made from here to Calgary for some months but now the quantity is getting to be somewhat impressive, as on Monday, over 100 cans were loaded into the baggage car.

For some years Didsbury has been out of the zone for shipping milk to Calgary but apparently the milk shortage has sent them back to this district for supplies.

Many Moving this Month-end

During the month-end there will be a regular round of moving in Didsbury.

Jack McCloy will be moving into the house lately occupied by Harold McFarquhar's family, which he has purchased. H. Lynch Staunton, having purchased the house lately occupied by C. R. Ford, will move this week.

Charlie McLaughlin moves into the Durrer residence, which he has purchased, and Mr. and Mrs. Durrer will move into the house lately occupied as a funeral parlor.

E. Wiggins will move to the old McLaughlin residence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Crouse are moving into Mrs. Chamberlin property, and Mr. and Mrs. Passmore and Mrs. S. J. Miller will occupy the residence vacated by Jack McCloy.

Two Didsbury Men Missing at Dieppe

Two Didsbury men, Lieut. R. H. (Dick) Wallace and Pte Jack Bookert are listed as missing after the Dieppe raid, according to telegrams received from Ottawa by relatives on Monday. They were both members of the Calgary Tanks which suffered heavy casualties during the raid.

Lieut. Wallace was born in Calgary 35 years ago and received his education there. He joined the staff of the Atlas Lumber Co. and for some years was manager of the Airdrie yard being later transferred to Didsbury. Soon after the outbreak of war he joined the Alberta Light Horse (reserve militia) and was in command of the detachment at this point for some time. He later joined the active forces and received a commission in the Calgary Tanks, going overseas in June, 1941. According to letters received from the boys overseas he was a very popular officer.

His wife and two children, Betty and Mervin, moved from here to Calgary where they still reside. His mother, Mrs. E. M. Wallace and his sister, Mrs. A. Peter, also live in Calgary.

Trooper Jack Booker, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Booker, was 25 years of age and was born and educated in Didsbury. He was one of the first to enlist after the war broke out, joining the Calgary Highlanders in September, 1939, and then went overseas in June, 1940. He transferred to the Ordnance Corp and for nine months worked as a welder. With the hope of getting into action he again transferred, to the Calgary Tanks.

His only brother and sister are both in active service, Peter being with the R.C.M.S. overseas, and Jo with the women's section of the R.C.A.F. at Toronto.

Letters indicated that Trooper Booker was attached to the same tank as Lieut. Wallace and it is thought they were in action together.

Weddings

FOWLER—HODSON

A quiet but very pretty home wedding was solemnized at Whiterock, B.C., on August 22, Rev. W. C. Frank officiating, when Florence Mary Joyce, daughter of Mrs. F. Hodson of Newton Station, B.C., and the late William Mayo Hodson of Didsbury became the bride of Thomas Webb Fowler, formerly of Turner Valley and now of Whiterock, B.C. Only immediate relatives were present.

A delicate buffet supper was served after which the couple left for a brief honeymoon on Vancouver Island. Upon their return they will reside permanently at Whiterock.

"Fifteen Minutes For Canada."

To emphasize the need for a greater war effort and as a means of impressing the public to do his or her part by buying more War Savings Stamps and Certificates it has been arranged that all stores in Alberta from 3:00 to 3:15 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 3rd, should suspend the sale of all merchandise and devote the time to the sale of War Savings Stamps.

The Retail Merchants Association are fully behind this "15 Minutes for Canada Day," and have circularized all merchants in Alberta asking them to procure a sufficient number of stamps and during the period use their best form of salesmanship to sell National War Savings Stamps.

The sale of stamps in the stores, however, is not restricted to that period only, as the merchants have been asked to sell war saving stamps over the counter at all times. So if you do not happen to be in a store at that time, make your purchase the first time you are in any store.

Receive Cables From Overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton received a cable on Tuesday from their son Pte. Ed. Carleton, who is in the Calgary Highlanders and was apparently in the raid at Dieppe, saying "I am fit, all's well," writing.

They are naturally gratified to learn that he was safe.

Ed. Watkins received a cable on Saturday from his brother Lieut. Pim Watkins, of Olds, who was with the Calgary Tanks at Dieppe, stating that he and all the Olds boys were safe and well.

On Monday, however, he received a wire from Ottawa stating that Pim was listed among the missing. It is felt that Ottawa must be in error.

Disburse Proceeds of Rubber Drive.

At a meeting of the Salvage Committee the proceeds of the Rubber Salvage Drive were disbursed as follows: $150.00 was allotted to the Red Cross for their "Prisoners of War Fund," and $50.00 was given to the I.O.D.E. for their war work projects.

The proceeds of the drive was $246.00 and after paying expenses there is still a small balance in the treasury.

From August 31st to Sept. 5th T. E. Scott will give a War Savings Stamp with every $5.00 purchase.

Weddings.

WEIDNER—LANDEEN.

At the Knox United Church on Wednesday, August 19th, a pretty wedding took place when Beatrice Emilie, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Landeen became the bride of William Glen, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weidner, of Westcott.

Rev. J. M. Fawcett performed the ceremony.

The bride was given away by her father and looked lovely in a floor-length gown of pale blue sheer, with a long veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She also carried a bouquet of pink carnations and cornflowers and wore a coronet to match.

She was supported by her sister, Ethel Landeen, charmingly attired in a dainty floor-length gown of pink sheer, with a round neckline trimmed with gold sequins. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and cornflowers and wore a coronet to match.

Mr. John Landeen supported the groom and Messrs Douglas Landeen and Allan Krebs acted as ushers. During the signing of the register Mr. Clifford Murphy beautifully rendered the lovely solo, "O Promise Me."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of bride's parents to about fifty relatives and intimate friends, where a dainty buffet luncheon was served. The house was tastefully decorated with vases of flowers and a large wedding bell, while pink and white decorations hung above a table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Landeen chose a lovely two-piece ensemble of navy blue and desert gold with navy accessories, while Mrs. Widener wore a dainty dress of rose flowered sheer with accessories. Both carried corsages of red roses.

In the evening a large crowd was entertained to a dance at Melvin Hall which was decorated with pink and white streamers. A dainty lunch was served. The bride and groom were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

The happy couple left by motor for Banff and on their return will take up residence on the groom's farm at Westcott.

A Real Fish Story

Charlie Mortimer was heard telling a real fish story on Monday evening. He and Tom Johnson had been out fishing and caught 4 trout that were so large that when they were placed in the trunk, the car was so tilted to the back that the headlights had to be adjusted.

Canadians Are Warned

COMMISSIONER S. T. WOOD, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, recently issued a statement, warning Canadians against the spreading of rumors in wartime. We have been constantly reminded of this ever since the outbreak of war, yet it seems that too much cannot be said of the evils which may result from idle talk and lack of consideration by people in these times. Hitler has waged a "war of nerves" as part of his evil strategy and no small share of his success in the past three years has been due to his ability to cause uncertainty and distrust among the people in the lands he sought to conquer. When we listen to, or repeat, a story that belittles in any way our war effort, or our faith in our cause, we should consider how well pleased the Axis powers would be, to see those seeds of doubt sown among us.

A Total War Effort bound to be losses, some miscalculations in strategy. Yet from the knowledge of some single error in production in a munition plant, or from a reverse on one of our fighting fronts, there have grown stories transforming these into major calamities and doing serious harm to our morale. As has been shown clearly in England and in Europe, this war is fought not by the armed forces alone, but by every man, woman and child. It is indeed a "total war". As yet the Canadian people at home have not had to face the horrors of mass bombings. There have been no great national catastrophes such as sometimes occur in wartime. We have not, as a civilian population, been asked to make sacrifices in proportion to those nearer to the enemy and threatened with attack. One of the ways in which we can serve, however, is in stamping out rumor and doing our part to keep up morale.

Value Of Unity In England, the Ministry of Information has recently released a motion picture dealing with this subject. The title of the picture is "The Next of Kin Have Been Notified," and it shows in a poignant story, how careless talk may cause the loss of many lives, a loss quite needless and therefore all the more regrettable. With our Allies, we belong to a group known as the "United Nations." The fall of the smaller nations of Europe, one by one, drove home to every one the vast importance of the word "united." The way will be long and hard, but there is no doubt that with the great resources they command, and with the great moral issues for which we fight, the United Nations will, in the end, triumph. Let no one in Canada doubt that, and let no one countenance or repeat any word that may sow seeds of doubt here. Commissioner Wood has long served the Canadian people and his advice now should be heeded by all.

Let's get down to cases. Forget all about proteins and carbohydrates and starches and vitamins. Being well-nourished is a habit which is by no means confined to the well-to-do. The vitamin chart issued free by the Health League of Canada, Western Division, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto. (Have you written for your copy?) says you can secure the essentials by eating one serving each of meat, potatoes, green-leaf or yellow vegetable, oatmeal porridge or whole wheat cereal, one egg, six slices of real whole wheat bread, one glass of tomato, orange, or grapefruit juice, and three glasses of milk. Simple, isn't it? And economical!

Heres' a week's adequate meals, at the least possible cost. And the first week is NOT the hardest. It's easy.

Note: Real whole wheat bread to be served at each meal. For the diet to be adequate, adults should drink milk for lunch or supper. Cod liver oil is necessary to supply sufficient vitamins A and D.

After you have lived on this diet for a week, write a 500-word essay describing either the economies you have effected or the benefits you have derived. The Health League of Canada will award a ten dollar ($10.00) prize to the writer of the best essay.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

Yesterday on the street I met a tall, bronzed young man in civilian clothes. His face seemed familiar. He walked with his shoulders back and his head up. He smiled at me and, automatically, since I like smiles, I returned the smile. Then I walked on puzzling slightly as to why the stranger had smiled.

Suddenly it struck me. He was no stranger! He was the Company Sergeant-Major! For two weeks we had been working together, saluting each other when the occasion arose and comparing notes as to the condition of this recruit's feet, that one's appalling habit of drinking ice cold fizzy pop and eating biscuits instead of lining up for his meals like a soldier.

But it emphasized two things: the difference wrought in a man by the clothes he wears; and the thin veneer that separates soldier from civilian.

It is a good thing that the veneer is so thin. Because it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that a sudden change from civilian to soldier may become necessary for many of us, no, most of us!

I said last week that the Reserve Army of today is very different from the Militia of the "between-war" years. It is, and it must be. It must have the support of every man able to meet the physical requirements.

Look at what a reserve army has done for Russia. That is what our Reserve Army must do for us.

It will make demands heavy demands upon our spare time. It will call for two or three evenings a week for drill, training or special instruction. It will call for ten Sundays. It will call for two weeks in camp every year, the whole totalling fifty-five days of training out of 365.

And that, actually, is considerably less time than the average citizen wastes on dancing, movies, ball games, hockey-matches and golf.

A mighty low insurance premium to pay, isn't it?

Not so long ago a man said to me quite seriously, "You people have no right to put alarming pieces in the paper about street-fighting in Halifax or Quebec or Montreal or Vancouver. That's alarmist stuff. It lowers morale."

It made me boil. He has a "C" classification for his car. He squawks about his high income tax on earnings that are much greater than before the war and he has time and energy available for golf.

But he couldn't, or wouldn't see the point when I suggested to him that if everyone in Russia had felt the same way about it Nazis would have been in Moscow a year ago!

We've really got to put our backs into this war. Knitting a few socks or sweaters, or sending cigarettes overseas, or buying war savings regularly isn't enough. It has to be an all-out effort!

In Hong Kong young Canadians died. In England thousands of young Canadians are champing at the bit while they train for the job they volunteered to do.

If it falls to us to defend the land they plan to come back to are we going to fail because the movies or the go-links were more important?

Even in the face of daily stories of repeated reverses on many fronts there still exist too many people who look upon the war as something that is going on "away over there". Do they think "it can't happen here"?

For nearly three years we have been at war now, and in all that time they haven't stepped on British soil," says your specialist in rose-colored glasses. He overlooks Hong Kong and Singapore! He doesn't want to take a ruler in his hand and compare the distance between Japan and Malaya with the distance between Norway and Nova Scotia.

Try it yourself appallingly close, isn't it? That's why we members of the Individual Citizen's Army must play our part whether that part be volunteering for Active Service, enlisting in the Reserve Army or just being good soldiers behind the men behind the guns.

W. P. T. B. Notes for FarmersCeiling Prices, Flour and Feed.

Millers and feed dealers must continue to observe ceiling prices on flour and feed. Arrangements are being made for them to receive wheat at an appropriate price in relation to their ceilings, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced.

Details of a plan to rebate the difference between respective appropriate prices and current market prices to the domestic purchaser through the Wheat Board, and through the Agriculture Supplies in the case of wheat for animal consumption, are being worked out. Rebate will be made from the Federal Treasury.

Barbed Wire NowMade In One Size

Manufacture of barbed wire has been reduced from four sizes to one and manufacture is limited to 60% of the average tonnage sold in previous years for consumption. Announcement comes from the Administrator of Fabricated Steel and Non-Ferrous Metals W.P.T.B. Steel is in heavy demand for war purposes, and the measure will insure a saving of zinc used for coating the wire.

Types of barbed wire to be made will be that weighing 57 lbs. net per 80-rod reel, or 58 lbs. gross shipping weight (including the reel) of two lines of wire and 4-point barbing, six inches apart. Single strand barbed wire shall be sold only to agencies of the Federal government. Stocks of prohibited sizes on hand may be sold, but each manufacturer is required to apportion his sales and deliveries fairly, for Canadian consumption.

Price of BeefIs Down Again

Effective on Monday, August 24th, 1942, is the third reduction of 1c per lb. for carcasses, sides and quarters of beef sold by wholesalers to retailers. Retail butchers are expected to pass the reduction on to the consumer.

The plan of reducing the price of beef first applied on July 13th, when the first reduction of 1c per lb. took place. Subsequent reductions have been worked out in a sliding scale, for the benefit of the consumer. Retailers, prohibited from paying more than the maximum wholesale price, likewise make their selling price to the consumer as the average delivered cost of carcasses, sides, quarters or cuts, plus their marginal mark-up in the basic period, September 15th to October 11th. This applies to sales of beef of the same or similar kind and quality.

Harvesters Carry
Tea, Coffee Coupons

Farmers' wives signing vouchers for sugar for harvesters, optimistically write in for extra allotments of tea and coffee, only to be turned down by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Supplies of tea and coffee for harvesters must come out of the ration allotment. So, harvest worker, if you want a cup of coffee, put your ration card in your pocket when you go up country with the crew.

False Rumour About Sugar

S. R. Noble, Sugar Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, branded the rumour that there were excessive stocks of sugar on hand in Canada as "false and absurd," saying: "Anyone circulating mischievous rumours of this sort is undermining our war effort and giving back door aid to the enemy by fostering distrust and discontent among the people at home."

One story alleges that there are 400,000,000 pounds of sugar in warehouses in southern Alberta, which Mr. Noble states exceeds Alberta's total production of sugar for the past five years! Surplus stocks of sugar have been shipped to Ontario. For the first time in history, Alberta sugar is marketed east of Winnipeg.

Three-quarters of the requirements of sugar in Canada are imported. Extra demands will be filled only at the risk of gallant seamen's lives, and ships.

Variety Test Plots

It has been our experience that when visiting experimental farms, farmers and others are always interested in variety test plots, and in new or unusual crops they have never seen before. With this in mind we sent seeds of wheat, oats, barley, corn, soy beans, grasses, alfalfa, etc., to country grain buyers willing to sow and weed the plots. Last year these plots were very popular. Several grain buyers reported that every farmer in the district visited the plots, and some farmers paid regular weekly visits.

This year we have 311 plots in the prairie provinces. About half of them include annual crops only, such as wheat, oats, barley, soy beans, corn, etc. The remaining plots have, in addition, perennial grasses and clovers. All include a variety of "hybrid" corn for comparison with standard varieties.

A complete list of plots, giving the location (town), and elevators in charge, has been sent to all grain buyers of line elevator companies associated with the Agricultural Department of The North-West Line Elevators Association.

In order to find out where the nearest plot is, therefore, enquire at the local line elevator. Schools, Junior Clubs and other groups are cordially invited to make up parties and visit these plots. Insofar as the quantity of material permits, grain buyers will be glad to supply small bundles (when fully ripe) for display in schools and elsewhere.

Ration Card NumberGoes on Sugar Voucher

When buying sugar for home preserving, take your ration card to the retailer and he will transcribe the amount from it on your sugar voucher, advises the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. This keeps all records straight. No coupons are required for sugar for preserving and jam making, but the purchaser's name, address and number of the ration card must be recorded on the purchase slip.

Canadian Women Serving in Ground Crews

A BRIGHT yellow tractor, skillfully guided by a driver in blue overalls, hooks on to a two-engined Avro-Anson aircraft in a flight hangar, hauls it out and swings it into line on the tarmac. More blue-overalled figures swarm around the plane, delve into its motors, clamber up on to the broad wings. A fuel truck pulls alongside and gasoline is fed into the wing tanks; the plane is checked over by the figures in overalls.

These photos were taken at No. 8 Air Observer School, Aeronautic League, P.Q., which is operated by Quebec Airways (Observers) Ltd., under the supervision of Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited in conjunction with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Seven such civilian-conducted flying schools across Canada are sponsored by Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited on a non-profit basis.

There is nothing unusual in this scene at any airport, military or civilian, except that in this case, the overalled attendants are not brawny, grease-stained men, but attractive, capable young women, who somehow manage to retain their natural measure of daintiness despite the grease-smears that go with working in a ground-crew.

Upper photo (left to right) shows Miss Beauchamp, Miss Alice Parry, Miss Cecile Noel and Miss Mabel Robertson (on tractor). Lower right (left to right) shows Miss Beauchamp fueling the aircraft; Miss Robertson of the Instrument Department, checking, and Miss Parry attaching ground wire.

More and more women are being recruited for this type of work, and still more are being sought for it. It's another phase of the war effort being shouldered by the fair sex, in addition to those on active service with the auxiliary services, working in office jobs or in war industries, in order to release more men for the armed forces.

Programme Advertising Scored

The money that goes into what is supposed to be goodwill programme and generally wasted advertising is enormous, comments J. V. McAree in one of his "half-pint" columns in the Toronto Globe and Mail. He adds:

"We were struck by a recent pamphlet issued by the Toronto Better Business Bureau. It says: 'The straddling days are over. Now more than ever before every dollar must count. Whether it is given to a war charity, a mission or a charity to the home front—or whether it is given for advertising in a programme, year book, convention book, or to a labour, veteran, civil service, police, military, or other publication of a similar nature, you can aid in our war effort by refusing to be deceived or defrauded . . . By getting the facts before you give or before you advertise you will not only save a very considerable sum from being wasted, but you will be making available a substantial sum of money for necessary purposes!'"

Synthetic Rubber

Developments Under Way May Supply Canada's Peacetime Needs

Canada's peacetime rubber requirements may be supplied entirely from synthetic rubber development now under way, Munitions Minister Howe told the House.

"I don't think we will ever go back to crude rubber," Mr. Howe said. "It looks as though we will be able to develop a purer and tougher article, and if we can keep the cost down it will meet our peacetime needs."

In a return previously tabled in the House, Mr. Howe revealed that two processes will be used to manufacture a total of about 40,600 tons a year. It was originally intended to use only a refinery gas base but these plans have been changed and part of the production now will come from alcohol produced from grain by existing distilleries. It is a combination of these two processes which, Mr. Howe believes will provide a rubber better than crude.

Use Of Substitutes

Glass Is Replacing Metals For Many Articles

Still another revelation of what can be done without as the war imposes its extinctions is reflected in the manner in which glass is replacing metals as a familiar domestic commodity. Man's ingenuity is finding many uses for the product which are astounding to those of us who are apt to think of glass as only a transparent, brittle material that has to be handled with the utmost care. But what do we find? Glass is replacing steel, tin, aluminum, synthetic plastics, cork, asbestos, silk, rubber, nickel, copper, to mention only a few strategic materials. It is being used to reinforce concrete, to cover the wings of training planes, for paratroops—the details of which, of course, are a military secret for barless prisons, for plumbing pipes. —Victoria Times.

SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Canvas is needed for the armed forces, so civilians may have to go short. Hammocks and garden furniture with canvas seats and sacks should not be left out in the rain because constant drying and bleaching not only fades the colors but weakens the fabric.

Old Razor Blades

Are Collected In London By The Thousands

I saw at Holborn Viaduct station today men passengers from the business trains dumping old razor blades into a box on the platform, to which attention was drawn by a blackboard. No doubt some of the blades had proved too much for their owners' chins only this morning.

Twenty-five thousand blades have been deposited in this box, 5,000 of them last week. In money they are valued at £8, which goes to the R.A.F. Benevolent Fund. Their real worth is their value as high-grade scrap.

To the average man old blades are the most difficult of "junk" to dispose of, for they are dangerous to leave about casually. If every London station copied Holborn Viaduct, the problem would be profitably solved. —London Evening Standard.

"ALL THAT GLITTERS"

— By —
ANNE TEDLOCK BROOKS

CHAPTER XXXV.

Ranny went through the kitchen door into the ancient wine cellar, followed its tunnel and hastened through a trapdoor that old black Gran had told them of in one of her stories. It had been made especially so that the family and the servants could escape into an orchard, if a surprise raid were made on them during war days.

Tamar and her father followed him to the opening of the tunnel and waited to see his flashlight beam playing along in the darkness until he came to the heavy outer door.

Ranny opened it carefully, afraid that the creak of its hinges would give away his presence. For a strange moment he thought this might be one of Tamar's and his childhood adventures into imaginary danger. The barberry bushes had grown so closely over the door that he had to push them aside to crawl out.

If any one had been watching the house they had not seen any light from an opening door. Ranny crawled quietly around the hedge into the drive leading past the stables. Keeping well under cover of the trunks of the big trees, he moved quietly. He was counting on finishing his search before the police sirens split the quiet of the evening.

The moon shone fitfully through the clouds, and there in the horses' burial plot rose the white shaft of the famous racer, Tahlahneka I.

A shabby figure stooped low above the slight mound. A man was fumbling about in the hollow of the shaft. He gave a satisfied grunt and rose.

Ranny leaped upon him, knocking him flat.

"If you move I'll shoot," he said.

Ranny's hands went swiftly over the prostrate man's pockets, and he took out a gun. He turned the man over, so that his flash could play upon his face.

"Fetten!"

"I ain't done nothin', Mr. Todd. Honest I ain't."

"Get up! What were you doing there at the monument?"

"N—nothin'." In the glare of the flashlight Fetten's face showed a sickening, greenish cast, and his voice shook.

"I'll shoot you like a dog, Fetten, if you don't speak up!" Strange words for Ranny, who had never wanted to kill even a mouse. He pushed the gun into Fetten's ribs.

"Don't!"

"You tooks the ransom money out of there, didn't you?"

"N—no! I don't know nothin' about no money. Honest Mr. Todd."

"Now, look here, Fetten. There's somebody in this besides you. If you tell the truth, you won't be punished as much as if you lie. You know that, don't you? The police are up there at the house. If they take you into town and men know you helped in kidnapping Miss Randolph, they'll take you away from the law and hang you by the neck till you're dead!"

His voice so tense and deep brought a shiver to Fetten.

"I didn't have nothin' to do with Miss Randolph. I don't know nothin' about it," he cried. "All I did was to tell the Major where a good hidin' place for a small box would be that nobody'd ever know. I told him about this place. Then night before last I got word to come and get the box and keep it at my place until it was called for."

"Start to the house," Ranny commanded, turning him in the direction.

Just as they came into the circle of lights from the living-room window, a siren sounded, and in another moment police were spilling out of the car.

"This man should be handcuffed," Ranny said turning Fetten over to him. "Will one of you come with me?"

Ranny retraced his steps back to the shaft in the burial plot. The patrolman who followed him stood by while Ranny put his hand into the hollow. It was empty. He exclaimed suddenly as he stepped into soft soil. Some one had been digging around the base of the shaft. It was in two parts, and together the men heaved at the rectangular base. It moved aside easily.

Ranny held his flashlight as the other man pushed aside the loose top soil. "I know what it is," Ranny said grimly. "The gold ingots!"

When Ranny reached the house he was out of breath. The mystery of the gold ingots had been cleared up, he exulted, and Fetten had been the link between Louie and the payment of the ransom. Fetten had lied about telling Towne where to have the ransom money placed. He had worked hand-in-hand with Louie on that point. He might have told the Major where to have the gold hidden after the plane had gone without it.

The Major must have been frantic to find that his plans about the plane had gone astray.

Fetten had been a tool, all along.

Fetten broke down in front of Tamar. He said: "Member that day I asked you t' not go back over the Cricket Hill road! I knew they's goin' to take the gold. Honest, I didn't know how it'd turn out."

Tamar looked at him pityingly. Why had they used any one so ignorant as Fetten? Perhaps they had thought by this very simpleness that he would not be able to figure out anything.

She heard Ranny at the door and flew to meet him. "Ranny?"

He stood there in the light of the old chandelier grinning at her. "I hated to dig it up without you, Tam. I found the treasure!"

"What do you mean?" she asked breathlessly. "Not . . . ?"

"Yep! Real treasure!" He whispered into her ear. "The gold ingots. Better than any pirate buried on any deserted island."

Tamar touched his hand. There was blood on it where the stinging vines of the overhanging bushes at the tunnel door had torn at them. His long fingers were covered with grime.

The next morning Tamar slept late. When she did awaken she felt that she would never like to stir out of the comfort of home again. She stretched luxuriously on her bed. The incidents of last night returned with a rush. She hated to find out what this morning's investigation would bring to light. She wanted tomorrow to be a fresh day without anything to blot out its happiness.

The telephone rang and Tamar picked it up reluctantly. Her face brightened when she heard Selby's voice. Selby had learned last night of her trip into Atlanta to identify Louie and Therese. She wanted to bring new thoughts and plans into Tamar's mind, so that the last few days would lose their hurt.

"Tamar, I'm sending Dick for you right now. I have permission from your father. You're going to come and stay a few days with me. I need you so terribly. I want you to help me with some plans," her voice trembled in its eagerness. "Get Phoebe to pack while you eat breakfast, 'cause Dick's already on his way."

"But Selby! I shouldn't leave just when Dad needs me. Oh, I'd love to come all right, but——"

"You're comin', Tamar," she said masterfully. "If they need you for anything they'll know where you are. I'm not going to let you sit at home and brood. You need me and I need you. Put on your bonnet and dash!" She hung up quickly so there could be no further argument.

Tamar was sorely tempted to go to Pinecrest. It would be fun to share Selby's secret and her plans. It would be nice to escape all of the worry of today's investigations, but she felt that it wasn't exactly fair to slip away and leave her father to go through it alone.

Phoebe's shuffling step was heard at the door and her light tap sounded. "Come in, Phoebe." Tamar sat up on the edge of her bed and stretched her arms high above her head.

"Chile, yo' breffust am waitin'. All but yo' toast, Aristotle am bringin' up yo' tray so's yo' can eat whilst I pack yo' bags." She marched firmly toward the closet.

"I'm not going, Phoebe, so you might as well get my place with Dad in the breakfast room."

"Dat man been gone so long ago dat de wheel tracks am growin' century plants by dis time," Phoebe grinned at her. "He say yo' musta yo'sef outa dat bed and git to Pinecrest spontan'y. He done tol' Mist Dick to drag yo' by de hal' on yo' haid, if yo' objecks."

Tamar laughed. "Put one over on me?" She sighed comfortably. "I'll

"Dat's good coffee, Phoebe. Ah'm s'prised dat yo' still knows how to cook afte' all yo' been th'ough."

Tamar's song had stopped. The silence was portentous. She came back with a great towel wrapped about her, padding over the hall carpet softly. She stood in the doorway of her room, a strange smile lighting her face making it radiant.

Phoebe looked at her over her shoulder. Her gray eyebrows came together quizzically.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS

It speaks well for the careful manner in which Canadian railways are operated and for the attention paid to their roadbeds and equipment that the period of exceptionally heavy traffic through which they are passing is marked by so few serious accidents. This is the more remarkable when it is recognized that many of the men now engaged in railway work may be classed as "green hands." — Brockville Recorder and Times.

NOTICE

A Clean Community acts as a preventive against disease: "Each householder can and should be a guardian of HEALTH."

The dread fly—carrier of disease—is again with us.

Every effort should be made to keep your premises fly-proof. Burn all garbage, but if it cannot be burnt, wrap well and place in fly-proof container, for regular removal by the scavenger. Have windows and doors properly screened and if the flies get in, swat 'em.

A suggestion re outside toilets: a pail of old oil poured in once or twice during the summer will prevent flies gathering. The garages and service stations will, no doubt, be glad to furnish the oil which has been drained from cars—ask them.

Your co-operation in the past is appreciated, give us it again, for a clean town free from disease.
